Industrial Spring: Your gateway to the markets of the future

For nearly two decades, Industrial Spring at Targi Kielce has been far more than an exhibition—it is a global ecosystem where innovation meets capital. As the leading event for the sector in Poland and across Central Europe, it has evolved into a platform where industry leaders and visionaries come together to define the standards of modern manufacturing.

For exhibitors, a show means more than an expo stand; this is a strategic opportunity to stand shoulder to shoulder with the world's largest players and present your brand where key purchasing decisions are made.

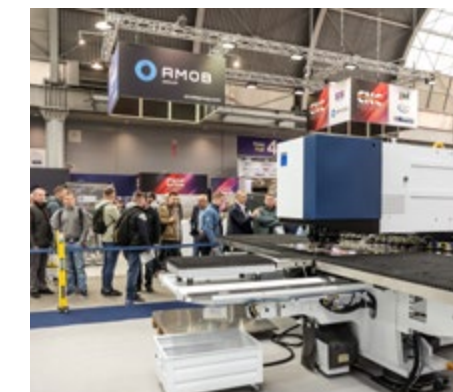

Łukasz Ciszek
AMADA

Just a few years ago, the lack of production staff was a problem. Today it is an everyday reality. Thus, the Industrial Spring is not just about watching machines. It's about how to actually keep production running. At AMADA, we showcase solutions that help companies operate faster, more consistently, and with less reliance on operators. Automation, process integration, and repeatable quality are no longer future directions—they are concrete answers to what's happening on factory floors right now. The trade fairs are, above all, about conversations with people facing the same challenges every day. And it's here that you can clearly see where the industry is heading.

The exhibitor's feedback:

In our view, Industrial Spring in Kielce has been the best trade fair in Poland for several years now, long surpassing Poznań. It stands out for its scale, quality, and infrastructure. Not being here would simply be a mistake. This year, we've seen steady visitor traffic and made sure to attract attention—this time by hosting a special guest, sports commentator Mateusz Borek, who provided live commentary for a FIFA final at our expo stand. We are very satisfied with this year's edition, although the true results will become clear in the coming months. Our co-operation with the Targi Kielce team has been excellent.

We exhibit at Industrial Spring primarily to acquire new customers and give them the opportunity to experience our solutions. Today, Targi Kielce is one of the most recognised trade fair brands. The event attracts strong representation from heavy industry, particularly in southern Poland, where many of our clients are based. Kielce is certainly competitive compared to the other offers. This year brought a high number of interested visitors and valuable discussions. We are very satisfied.

Without a doubt, Industrial Spring is currently the best trade fair in Poland. I've been satisfied with Kielce for years—it's an excellent exhibition city. It may not be perceived as large, but its infrastructure is strong and continually evolving. As for my opinion about this year's expo, it was definitely better for us than last year; we had many interested clients and held numerous meetings. We are very satisfied

For four days, our expo halls are transformed into a fully operational, state-of-the-art factory, the only place in the region where you can showcase the full power of your machines working live. Machines live in action, building customer trust through direct, hands-on experience.

Don't let your competition get ahead of you. Discover opportunities that will unlock a new level of production performance and profitability for your business.

This year's Industrial Spring in Kielce is a great success for us as an exhibitor; we had a lot of clients interested in our company's specific offer. We had a lot of business conversations, which we hope will lead to success in the future, i.e., a sale. Participating in Industrial Spring is a "must-have" event for us. We have been at this trade fair from the very beginning, always in Expo Hall 5, always at the front. We continue to support the Kielce Exhibition and Congress Centre and have kept a close eye on its development over the years. The fact that they are building more expo halls confirms what I said. We spent four days here this year, as always, in a good, pleasant environment and with professional service.

We started exhibiting at Industrial Spring eight years ago, and we have noticed that this event is getting bigger every year and is gaining importance among foreign companies like ours. More and more exhibitors come from China. In Poland, we participated in two trade fairs, but at the moment we only exhibit at Targi Kielce. There are plenty of companies here representing various industries. Every year our expo stand attracts great interest, and this year we had many customers as well. klientów.

We exhibit at Industrial Spring to acquire new customers and strengthen our brand presence. This year's show looks very strong, with a wide range of companies from various industries. Even more exhibitors come from abroad, which confirms the importance of Targi Kielce not only in Poland. People come and ask about the offer. Visitor interest is clear, and from an organisational standpoint, I would rate the event as an A-level show.

We participated in last year's Industrial Spring Expo; this was the lens which made us see that economic growth in Poland is good. Many Chinese companies, like ours, exhibit in Kielce, there are many customers here interested in our offer. We know that there are more similar trade fairs in Poland, but Industrial Spring takes place at the beginning of the year, which is why we are here.

This year, during the Industrial Spring, we presented a modern fibre laser cutting machine. The live demonstrations attracted a large number of people interested in our flagship model, which combines high power, high precision, and stability to meet the complex needs of industrial cutting. We have had talk-shop conversations with many clients who were curious about our offer and technology. These four days have been very productive, and we highly recommend the exhibition at Targi Kielce.

Industrial Spring is the only event of its kind at this time of year—all others take place in autumn, which is why we exhibit here. Importantly, Targi Kielce has a very good location and access. Among all industrial trade fairs in Poland, this one deserves the highest rating. Interest in our products this year was significantly higher than in previous years, and we held numerous valuable meetings. We expect strong results. We hosted many clients, had many conversations, and we are counting on satisfactory results.

The exhibitor's feedback:

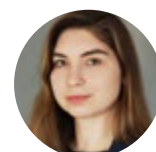

We see that this Industrial Spring is certainly the largest event in Poland's metal industry. Our presence here translates directly into success. It's the best business environment for both suppliers like us and customers, who can explore a wide range of innovative solutions in one place. We are very satisfied with visitor numbers and our cooperation with Targi Kielce Yaskawa has been operating in Poland for 10 years; in 2016, we established an office in Wrocław and now operate throughout the country. We've been a long-standing partner of Targi Kielce and have strong ties to this event—it's where it all started; we have had our expo stand in the same place for many years. We know that Industrial Spring is one of the best quality fairs in Poland, which has clearly reached a top level. The event can already be referred to as international, because not only Polish companies are exhibiting. Targi Kielce is centrally located, so we can come without worrying about whether the expo attracts audiences. This is our key meeting point with clients, and every year we can count on strong attendance. After today, we are very satisfied. The first day was a kind of a trial run, but today the crowds are immense. We are working very intensively, and we are counting on good results.

We are exhibiting at Industrial Spring for the sixth time; this year we came with a team of thirty people. We've expanded into the filtration and ventilation segment, so we're now presenting more than just welding tables. Each year, we plan to grow our presence further, so we are planning a larger expo stand. As for the trade fair itself, there was always a lot going on, including a welding competition. Importantly, we had many business discussions. There are more and more of them every year, with customers and our distributors coming to the trade fair. Many of them just come here to give us a figurative high-five. They often say that they are here just for us, to see what we have come up with - because they come especially to us, it's a really nice meeting place for us. We definitely rate this year's edition as A

These four days at the Industrial Spring fair were very intense, with many important conversations and meetings, and we met with great interest in our offer. Our expo stand was busy most of the time, and we are very pleased with this year's edition. We note the continuous development of Targi Kielce and the strengthening of its leading position in the country.
